

CHAPTER IV

CONCLUSION

The objectives of the research entitled The Main Character's Love and Unfair Treatments that Influence Her Progress in Charlotte Bronte's Jane Eyre (1) to describe love experiences undergone by Jane Eyre, the main character of Jane Eyre. (2) to describe the unfair treatments undertaken by Jane Eyre (3) to analyze Jane Eyre's progress due to her love and the unfair treatments. Library research including internet browsing is employed to find the relevant theories, to form conceptual model, that in the following term are to find the data. The data corpus of this research are all of the phrases, clauses, sentences and even paragraphs and discourses related to the main character's love and her progress in Charlotte Bronte's Jane Eyre. Psychological and social approaches are used to analyze the data.

Jane Eyre as the main character experiences two kinds of love, neighbor's love and romantic love. In her childhood when all of the people in her aunt's house hate her and treat her unfairly, fortunately, she still gets love from her maid, Bessie. At Lowood School where she studies in her childhood she gets love from her best friend, Helen, and also her teacher, Miss Temple. At Thornfield where she becomes a governess she also gets love from the maid Mrs. Fairfax and her student, Adele. Moreover, Jane's romantic love is with Mr. Rochester, her master at Thornfield.

Then, Jane Eyre also gets some unfair treatments in her childhood and in her adulthood. In her childhood she gets unfair treatments from her aunt, cousins and maid. Her aunt treats her differently from her cousins. Jane is treated as a servant and even the maid consider her as worse than a servant. At Lowood she also gets unfair treatments from her teacher. She is said to be a liar and the students must stay away from her. In her adulthood she gets the unfair treatments from her aunt and her new neighbor in Thornfield. Her aunt keeps the heritance she should get from her uncle. Then, Mr. Rochester,s guests at Thornfield also treat her unfairly. They underestimate her profession as a governess. Even, Mr. Rochester himself treats her unfairly by laying her about his status and marriage.

Finally, due to her love and the unfair treatments undertaken by Jane Eyre, Jane has some progress. They are emotional progress, materialistic progress and career progress. As the emotional progress Jane becomes a careful, brave and confident woman. As the materialistic progress Jane becomes rich after she gets amount of money from her uncle. Eventhough she is a rich woman now but she still thinks about the other. The bad treatments in her childhood do not make her becomes a greedy person. In her carrier Jane always gets some progress. First, she becomes a teacher at Lowood, then becomes a governess and headmistress for a girl's school in Morton.
