

CHAPTER IV

CONCLUSION

The objectives of study entitled the study of Ambition for Women Position in Marriage of The Nineteen Century in England in Jane Austen's Emma are 1) to describe Emma's ambition. 2) to describe obstacles of Emma's ambition. 3) to find out Jane Austen's criticisms toward woman position in marriage of the nineteenth century through Emma's ambition.

In order to form the concept library research including internet browsing is done in collecting data. These conceptual models are used to find the data in the novel. The novel of Jane Austen "Emma" really concern about the study of woman position to get equal position with man. Furthermore, there are three discussions that are formulated in the statement of the problem. The explanation can be found in the third chapter.

Emma ambition is to get women position to be equal with man in her marriage. The ambition of Emma concerns when she decides not to get married because she hates to be dependent with man. Finally she finds the superior man whom she marries. Besides that, her ambition as match maker is failed.

In "Emma" the women position is related to the men domination in patriarchal family, it means that man becomes the one who holds the power of the family and it makes Emma have some obstacles to reveal it. They are the causes of her despair, cowardice, and powerlessness.

Jane Austen criticism toward women's position in marriage of the nineteenth century in England. They should be able to have their own activity; it means that men should give women an opportunity to get a better education, because women also have an ability to be the best like men. Therefore, men have to appreciate women because they also have a potential and an aspiration to be the best. In the nineteenth century England financial matter is the most important consideration for women come from a lower status want to get married. Status in this case means wealth. Thus, women in lower status have to marry the noble people who have owned property because it can give them a good place in society and a financial security. Jane Austen also wants to say that lower status women can work if they want to improve their position in society. Therefore, they do not need to think about status when they want to get married, because they can make it if they want to improve themselves. Looking through the whole story, it can be concluded that, Jane Austen wants to criticize the women's position in marriage of the nineteenth century in England that makes them get an inferior position. Jane Austen hopes that women can have an equal opportunity like men. It means that men should give women freedom and opportunity to get a better education and to appreciate women with their weakness and strength. Therefore, they will not depend her life on their husband. Besides, through Emma Jane Austen also, wants women in the nineteenth century England to realize their inferior position and to have an encouragement to change this condition.

BIBLIOGRAPHY

- Abrams, M.H. 1989. A Glossary of Literary Terms. New York: Holt, Rinehart and Winston.
- Austen, Jane. 1966. Emma. London: Penguin Books.
- Bowman, Henri. 1954. Marriage for Modern. New York: McGraw Hill Book Company, Inc.
- Brannon, Linda. 1995. Gender Psychology Perspectives. Boston : Allyn and Bacon.
- Brooks, Purser and Warren. 1952. An Approach to Literature. New York: Appleton Century-Crofts, Inc.
- Devlin, Joseph. 1938. Webster's New School and Office Dictionary. New York: Webster Publishing Company.
- Foster, E.M. 1927. Aspects of the Novel. New York: Holt, Rinehart and Winston.
- Guerin, L. Wilfred, et al. 1962. A Handbook of Critical Approaches to Literature. New York: Harper and Row Publishers.
- Holman, C. Hugh. 1986. A Handbook to Literature. New York: MacMillan Publishing Company.
- Hornby, A.S. 1986. Oxford Advanced Learner's Dictionary of Current English. London: Oxford University Press.
- Jones, Edward H. 1968. An Outline of Literature. New York: MacMillan Company.
- Kennedy, X.J. 1979. An Introduction to Fiction, Poetry and Drama. Boston: Little Brown and Company.
- Kenney, William. 1966. How to Analyze Fiction. New York : Monarch Press.
- Mifflin, Houghton. 1987. Ambition. Available: <http://education.yahoo.com/dictionary/ambition.htm>. (Accessed on Tuesday, March 20th, 2007).
- Montagu, Ashley. 1972. The Natural Superiority of Women. New York : The Macmillan Company.

- Morris, William. 1969. The American Heritage Dictionary of the English Language. New York: American Heritage Publishing Co, Inc.
- Ress, R.J. 1973. English Literature for Foreign Readers. London: MacMillan Company.
- Schwarz, Oswald. 1956. The Psychology of Sex. London: Penguin Books, Ltd.
- Stanton, Robert. 1965. An Introduction to Fiction. New York : Holt, Rinehart and Wiston Inc.
- Warren. 1991. Biography of Jane Austen. Available : <http://www.gradesaver.com>. (Accessed on Sunday, July 15th, 2007).
- Webster. 1972. New Twentieth Century Dictionary (Unabridged). New York: Simon & Schuster.
- Wellek, Rene and Warren Austin. 1965. Theory of Literature. New York: A Harvest Book Hard Court, Brace & World, Inc.