

CHAPTER IV

CONCLUSION

Literature exist as a part of human life. It expresses ideas, thoughts, and feeling that happen in daily life. It also gives pleasure and experience in life to the reader; therefore they like to read it. The literary works are drama, novel and poetry. By reading the literary works, the reader can get pleasure and enrich experience in life and also add knowledge and entertainment. Here, the writer discusses the novel entitled The Virgin and The Gipsy written by D.H Lawrence. The discussion on the thesis deals with the problems of Yvette as the main character in D.H Lawrence's The Virgin and The Gipsy.

To make analysis of the novel, The Virgin and The Gipsy written by D.H Lawrence run well, the writer analyzes the problems based on the theoretical framework by using the theories, such as: psychoanalysis, character, and characterization. Accordingly, the three problems discusses in the thesis: The first is the conditions showing Yvette considered as a "virgin." It consists of three parts, the first one is lacking the will, the second one is lacking the consciousness and the third one is lacking sexual experiences. The analyzes focuses on the ways how the main character's condition is considered as a "virgin."

The second, the writer discusses the conditions that make Yvette lose her virginity. It is also divided into three parts; the first one is lack of will "virginity", the second one is lack of consciousness "virginity", and the last one is lack of sexual experiences "virginity". It focuses on the analysis of how some conditions can make Yvette lose her virginity.

The third, the thesis writer discusses the change happening to Yvette after losing her "virginity." Yvette becomes an individual in which she has submitted to her deepest passion in her soul where she has found a full and free expression of life and love as an individual. After she has gained her individuality, she does everything to get what she wants.

Finally, after writing this thesis, the writer learns more about virginity. Virginity is not only has to do with sexuality but also it has to do with the will, consciousness and unconsciousness of someone. The witer hopes that the readers can learn and understand more about the virginity after reading this thesis.
