

CHAPTER IV

CONCLUSION

Based on the discussion and the analysis about pessimism in the previous chapter, conclusion can be formed as follow:

The research method used in this thesis is deductive method because it intends to describe the character and the idea about pessimism in the novel Tender of the Night by Fitzgerald. To support the method used in this thesis, the writer develops library research. It is used the search some books and other supported material to build this thesis. Meanwhile the writer also browses small to find some articles connected with this work. The research approach in this thesis is philosophical approach, that is the approach that deals with the literary works, ideas, and wrapped in the form of imaginative work.

Dick is smart, and an ambitious man. Who has dream to successful doctor. He needs the wealth to fulfill his ambition. He wants to make easy money by marrying Nicole Warren, a rich mental patient. His friends try to give explanation to Dick the consequence of marrying Nicole but Dick insists to go further. At that time, many problems may occur in his life. It is Dick's failure. Dick has a passion, he wants to marry Nicole to get the richness from her parent. Nicole is a gift and rosehips in his life. He will not need to work hard posses happiness and richness if he marries Nicole Warren.

Ignoring the disagreement of his friends, finally Dick marries Nicole. They posses the happy life about six years. They have two children, Lauier and Topsy.

Dick enjoys his easy life, traveling from one country to another. However their happiness is not last longer.

The causes of Dick's Diver's pessimism are Dick Diver's affair because his relationship with Rosemary makes his life and his family becomes crumble. He finally lost his wife. Secondly, Dick seems very tired because of Nicole's illness. Nicole illness consumes him very much. She is emotionally instable. Nicole cannot control her self. It makes him fall desperately. Thirdly, Nicole has an affair with Tommy Barban who loves her very much. Nicole finds her confidence and she is effectively cured. This affair makes him feel completely torn into a peace, desperate and sad. Now, he becomes no one. His cases are closed, because Nicole Warren recovers from her illness. And he must divorces from Nicole. Finally is Dick's alcoholism. After facing many failures, Dick's turn his intention to liquor. He becomes an alcoholic. It is wrong because he is a doctor. Dick shall leave the clinic. The admirable profession of Dick Diver's is buried by his alcoholism.

The influence of Dick Diver's pessimism can be concluded from his patient because since Dick becomes an alcoholic, his patient cannot believe that a sick person, such as Dick Diver cures other people. They here to cure their illness of alcoholism but Dick is an alcoholic. They leave the clinic. Secondly the colleague, Dr. Gregory who works with him four years, leaves his because he knows that Dick's abandoned by his patient because of his alcoholic. Dick loses his job. Thirdly is his wife, Nicole Warren because after knowing that Dick falls into his pessimism. Nicole turn her attention to another man. Dick loses his wife. He divorces Nicole to marry Tommy Barban. He is alone. He is abandoned by his patients, his colleague and now he has nothing left.
