

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION

Jargon is a set of terms and expressions used by certain group. It is a language variety that deals with profession or occupation. It has unique characteristic, that is, not hide the meaning of the terms to outsiders or in other words not intend to be secret to the outsiders. It also exists in special-interest group, such as art lovers, custom car hobbyists, etcetera. In relation to the topic of analysis, the group is cock fighting and fighting cock hobbyists or it is called cock-fighters.

The writer classifies the jargon used by cock-fighters into three categories:

1. The jargon concerned with the fighting cock.

It relates to the cock, such as pacekan, rawis, haratan, etcetera.

2. The jargon concerned with the bet.

It relates to the bet in the cock fighting, such as lawen asor, karotheng, gutuk, etcetera.

3. The jargon concerned with the rules of the cock fighting.

It relates to the rules in the cock fighting, such as ayam air, ayam pel, ayam madhep, etcetera.

By analyzing the data, the writer finds the functions of jargon. The functions are:

1. Describing the fighting cock

2. Explaining the bet
3. Explaining the rules of the cock fighting

From the analysis in chapter four the writer concludes two things. First, there is jargon in Javanese language especially jargon of cock-fighters. The jargon exists in special-interest group. Second, the cock-fighters have reasons in using the jargon, that is:

1. The cock-fighters want to express their idea.
2. The cock-fighters more comfortable when apply the jargon.
3. The cock-fighters want to create simple words.
