

CHAPTER IV

CONCLUSION

A View from the Bridge is one of the plays created by Arthur Miller. A View from the Bridge is a modern drama, which is dealing with loves story. The writer formulates three problems namely: To know the main character, to know Eddie's motivation, and to know the theme. The study is created to find the description of the main character, to analyze of Eddie's motivation and the finding of the theme. The method of this writing is library research with deductive method.

After reading A View from The Bridge which is written by Arthur Miller, it is known that Eddie, the main character who has a high ambition to reach his desire, feels that he is a person that must be responsible to his family. Catherine as his niece regards Eddie as her own parent, but according to Catherine, Eddie's love is very copious. The environment makes Eddie become a person who has a high a temperament, so, a little problem become a big problem. Two stranger men who come in his house make the situation restless. Eddie gives suggestion to Catherine in order to take care her-self. Eddie wants Catherine to become an adult girl. Eddie also wants anything perfect for Catherine.

Eddie, as the main character in this play is only an example of person who has a big responsibility for his family and his environment.

After analyzing about the character and motivation of Eddie, the writer knows why Eddie has trained very hard, namely Eddie wants her to become an educational person who has the same status as her parents do. The reality is human cannot be separated from love and love also comes to every person in the world.

The theme of A View from The Bridge is love sacrifice in the family which have something that ambition to reach love to each other in a family, but it is useful for whoever wants to know about Arthur Miller's play in every his literary works.
