

CHAPTER IV

Conclusion

Hallowe'en Party is one of the novel created by Agatha Christie. She takes the social conflicts in this novel. So, the writer is interested in analyzing it, because the writer wants to know the real murderer. Therefore, the writer formulates two problems namely, to find the social conflicts and to find the resolution of the social conflicts. The method of this writing is library research with deductive method. Library research is applied to find the relevant theoretical base.

Then, the writer can analyze the social conflicts between Hercule Poirot and the other characters. In this novel, there are analysis of Social conflicts between Judith Butler and Inspector Spence, the social conflicts between Miranda Butler and Nicholas Ransom, etc.

The social conflicts is the conflict that happened between one person against another person. Relating to the explanation above, it is clear that the human being always passes many problems between one and other person in real life. Then, person do not enjoy happy life, however he/she also passes trouble with other person.

APPENDIX A

The social conflict happens when Hercule Poirot tries to find a real murderer, because between one witness and the other witness have the different opinion about Joyce Reynolds. He gets this information from Elizabeth Withaker that Rowena Drake is a murder. However, Hercule Poirot does not trust, because he knows that Rowena Drake has a big influences in Woodleigh Common. He always holds the party. The other influences, she is the most rich people. There are two murderer which happened in this novel.

The statement is clearly illustrated through, that social conflicts is happened because Hercule has a different opinion with a witness. A witness has opinion that Joyce is a liar, but Hercule Poirot is sure that Joyce' story is true. He has the opinion, because she is death after she tells it. From the analysis, the writer concludes that the greedy person will get a bad effect from their attitude.
