

CHAPTER IV

CONCLUSION

Everyone in the world has ambition. It is normal for human being who still has desires and hopes either in reaching their dreams or proving their existence to others. Ambition also builds the spirit of human beings in facing their life. Usually it makes them be spirited to reach their goal. So, ambition is like an energy or power in one's mind to obtain one's goal.

Human being itself has a heart and mentality condition. It is possible for everyone to change. Usually, the changing of someone's mood or feeling is influenced by something. Then it would influences him in having point of view and attitudes. As an example of the implementation, it influences someone's lifestyle.

Mr. Fogg is a man who has a big ambition to prove his opinion to others that he is able to do a journey around the world in 80 days. He is ready to do and sacrifice anything in reaching his goal. His ambition makes him resolute in facing any problems during his journey. Then, his ambition and spirit support him to come to his success.

The writer does this thesis by using psychological approach which is related tightly to ambition as the main topic of this thesis. The writer tries to understand the stability of Mr. Fogg's emotion in doing efforts for getting his purpose. Besides, the writer also tries to analyze the influence of his ambition on his life.

Deductive method of analysis which is chosen by the writer makes this thesis easy to be understood after analyzing the general matter then go to the specific one.

The result of this analysis shows that ambition brings a big influence on Mr. Fogg's life. After passing many problems he becomes more mature than before. He changes his former philosophy which influenced him to lived alone without trying to share his life with others. He becomes "the new Mr. Fogg" who dares to receive "a friend". An astonishing event is he receives a woman's proposal then decides to marry her. It is a big proof which shows that his philosophy is changed.

All are possible to change. Even Mr. Fogg who has a strong principal about living alone can change his principal after finding someone who makes him understand that sharing life with others is important to be done.

"Around The World In Eighty Days" by Jules Verne shows a very amazing value about how an ambition could bring someone to do a very difficult thing, then finally, brought him unaware to his truly happiness. Here, the writer concludes that anyone could be such kind of other "Mr. Fogg" who had a very strong ambition in reaching the purpose then be succeed on it.
